

Day #23, Activity #23

The Tuesday List:

Poetry Broadsides:

Art and poetry often go together and one of the best combinations is known as a poetry broadside – a poem with accompanying artwork. These can be very simple with a few lines or shadows or accents or they can be more involved with larger images. Check out the Broadsides below under Items of Interest for some great examples.

Make a list of poems that you like. Choose two that you especially like. Read both poems slowly out loud. As you read them, listen for an image or an idea that comes to you. Choose one of the poems to work with and create a drawing or some type of artistic design to go along with the poem. Take your time with this one. It might take you several days or longer.

When you have completed the broadside, write a paragraph or so discussing your process of creation. Good luck.
